

Team

Anything can be built better if you have a team of right people around. Marvin XR believes that development of finest quality of AR needs a team. Since web AR development is a mix of skillsets including vision, business ideas, 3D artists and UX developers - you can invite and add as many team members to share your account.

This means if you have created few AR applications and then invite your 3D artist to share the account, then the artist can use his own login credentials to share the account and still view all AR campaigns that you have created.

Invite your team member either with Admin or User role, based on the need of how you want to manage your team and provide them necessary access for your web AR portfolio.

Heads up!

You can invite your team members sharing the same account
Admin role will bring the magical power of total control while User role will provide read only access
